

HPLC Separation of Succinic and Methylmalonic Acids

Organic and inorganic acids can be separated by reversed-phase anion-exchange Primesep D column. Succinic and methylmalonic acids were separated based on their hydrophobic and ionic properties. Method can be used for analysis of other acids by HPLC.

Method Parameters

Detection	ELSD Detection
------------------	----------------

Quelle: <https://sielc.com/Application-HPLC-Separation-of-Succinic-and-Methylmalonic-Acids>